Director's Report

Brian reviewed his report, he continues to work on a solution for noise at the Pickle ball court, He's researching three other court locations in residential neighborhoods to see what they use to dampen the noise. He'll be discussing options with the Town Board. Recreational art classes are doing well even though they are scheduled on Friday evenings.

Gullace Project update

The property owner's response to the Village Board was discussed. Items include an 8 foot wide stone dust trail connection to the park on Village property. Brian sent the information on to Bayer Associates so that the amenities may be incorporated in their plan of the park. Brian and Josh discussed meeting with the Director of Public Works & Mayor to coordinate work projects. A four-way stop sign is proposed for the corner of Hillcrest Drive, Church Street and the new street that will be built.

Town Supervisor Updates

The Town is in an eminent domain proceeding regarding the former Lord and Taylor building. The anchor stores are owned independently by outside companies, not Wilmorite, who owns Eastview Mall. Wilmorite is looking to obtain the Lord and Taylor property and approached the town to use eminent domain to help obtain the property.

There's no update regarding pursuing a recreation center. The current Rec Center facility lease expires at the end of 2022 and the town has to notify the property owner 6 months prior if they want to extend the lease. Brian is assuming the department will be in the current building for the next 2-5 years.

CAC Student Rep introduction

Issac gave a background of his hobbies which includes biking at Dryer Road.

Bike to School

Mark spoke to Cindy Riley, head of PTSA about rescheduling or reformatting an event. She was interested in a community wide style of event. There's a PTSA meeting this Thursday at which Cindy will get feedback from the members.

The PTSA has the ability to provide bike 'classes'.

Another option is a Bike with a Tyke style event based out of the Rec Center
